

Global Studies

Programme type: graduate
(second-cycle)

Study mode: full-time

Number of semesters: 4 (2 years)

Tuition fee: 7200 PLN /year

ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

Global Studies students explore interdisciplinary knowledge in the area of:

- political science,
- economics,
- sociology,
- culture,
- new technologies.

During their studies:

- they will gain knowledge, among others in the field of global political economy, international relations, and public diplomacy.
- They will take a closer look at specific regions in a global context, including Latin America and Western Europe, as well as learn about international security, European cooperation, and global ethics.
- Students will also gain the ability to cooperate in a multicultural environment and gain understanding in the field of foreign policy analysis and their impact on global development, as well as global inequalities.

QUALIFICATION CRITERIA

You can apply for Global Studies if you have a degree in:

- Political Science;
- International Relations;
- Internal Security;
- National Security,
- Journalism and Social Communication;
- Economics;
- Ethnology;
- Philosophy;
- Sociology.

Please note that even if you have a degree in one of the above-mentioned disciplines, your transcript of grades still will be verified by the programme's coordinator. If your previous study programme and the one we offer differ significantly, it might be impossible for you to pursue Global Studies at the University of Opole.

Check the programme's website here

FUTURE CAREER PROSPECTS

By obtaining a Master's Degree in Global Studies:

- you will gain valuable capital in the contemporary labor market,
- you will achieve your qualifications in English;
- you will gain practical skills in analyzing international issues,
- and you will have the possibility of personal development in a multicultural environment.

Therefore, your professional future may be related to:

- international business
- international governmental organizations (institutions of the European Union, NATO, UN, and many others)
- non-governmental organizations working in the international environment
- public administration
- start-up sector trying its hand at the international market.